Downtown St. Pete Mobility Study Gets Moving

~~Forward Pinellas launches survey to shape the vision of their community~~

ST. PETERSBURG, FL ---- Ever wish there were more opportunities to bike in Downtown St. Pete? Maybe you live nearby and would like a way to safely access and enjoy downtown? Or maybe you would like an easier drive from your work to museums? Now is the time for your voice to be heard! Forward Pinellas is launching the Downtown St. Petersburg Mobility Study in partnership with the City of St. Petersburg and the Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT). Take a five-minute survey about how you travel to and around Downtown St. Petersburg and the transportation issues you see.

"The Downtown St. Petersburg Mobility Study will help us understand how we can improve our transportation network to meet the community's needs for improved access, connectivity and mobility, while preserving our mix of institutions, jobs, services, arts and culture. I want to thank our partners at the Florida Department of Transportation and Forward Pinellas for their work on this important study. I look forward to hearing about creative ways to improve mobility in and connect to downtown," says St. Petersburg Mayor, Rick Kriseman.

The Downtown St. Petersburg Mobility Study is designed to engage the entire community to help define a vision for mobility in the greater Downtown area, look at ways to improve mobility, livability and economic vitality and identify and prioritize projects and programs that will benefit the community.

Throughout the project, there will be several opportunities for residents to get involved, including neighborhood outreach to communities and businesses, interactive surveys, and even social media contests. We recognize that people are traveling differently right now. We welcome your thoughts on your interactions with Downtown both before COVID-19 and what you are seeing today.
